Publication charges

The journal has two options for publication: open access (OA) and page charges. In OA publishing, authors may choose to pay the OA rate when author proofs are returned so that their paper becomes freely available upon publication in an online issue. With page charges, authors pay regular page charges and articles become freely available 12 months after publication in an issue.

For invited reviews, only the first 10 published pages are not subject to page charges; these papers would be subject to the additional OA fee if authors choose the OA method of publication.

If at least one author is a current professional member of ADSA, a reduced publication fee is charged. To receive the member rate for publication charges, please provide the ADSA member ID number or name of author who is a professional member of ADSA:

_____. (If left blank, this manuscript will be invoiced at the nonmember rate.)

Color charges. The printing fee for 4-color images is $650 per figure with color.
